

1. Outside of the scriptures, what is God's favorite book, do you think?
2. If college consisted of only one course, what course should it be?
3. When you're lying on your death bed, would you rather be able to say that you'd (a) read a million books, (b) seen a million movies, or (c) known a million people?
4. True or False: If you really love God, then you must also love being out in the wilderness.
5. What is the point of getting a college degree, anyway?
6. How important is it to be active politically on a local, state, and federal level?
7. How much should you know about a candidate before you vote for him or her? How much should you know before you decide not to vote for him or her?
8. Is it wrong to secretly want to be a General Authority?
9. Let's say you know somehow that you will be called to be a General Authority—what would be the best possible major to pick today?
10. Would you take this class if it weren't required? Why do you think this class (or one very like it) is required at practically every university in America?
11. How much education should a housewife or househusband have? Why and what is it good for?
12. If you could make one major change to the public school system, what would it be?
13. Should students be graded on how hard they try or on whether or not they achieve the course objectives?
14. True or False: With hard work and determination, you can make any dream a reality
15. True or False: Because of physical, mental, emotional, economic, and other limitations beyond our control, it is misleading to teach our children that they can accomplish anything through hard work and determination.
16. Let's say you meet this very attractive, very competent doctor. Then let's say you somehow discover that this attractive, seemingly capable doctor was a C and D student all through grade school and just scraped by in college and medical school. Would you be this doctor's patient? Would you date this man or woman?
17. Which super power would you choose: (a) a perfect grasp and command of grammar and punctuation, or (b) a perfect smile and perfect hair?
18. Taste and convenience aside, do you think it is more important to patronize the Crossroads or local restaurants when spreading your money around?
19. Would you eat meat if you were required to raise, slaughter, and prepare it yourself?

20. Some fields of study—medicine, engineering, etc.—produce obvious and immediate benefits for mankind, while the effects of other fields—the humanities, arts, history, etc.—are not as material or wide-ranging. Should these different fields receive equal funding in the universities and elsewhere, or should more money go to the ones that produce more results?
21. Let's say you are from China or some other country very different from the United States. What is the weirdest or grossest thing Americans eat without even realizing how gross it is?
22. Should universities continue to require humanities courses for all students, even those going into non-humanities-related fields?
23. Would you rather be rich in a job you hate or poor in a job you love?
24. At what age do you want your children to learn the difference between modesty and immodesty? At what age do you want them to know the fundamentals and morals of sex?
25. Is it a sin to watch scary movies?
26. Let's say you have several children under the age of 10. How do you feel about taking them abroad? What about to a third-world country?
27. The Second Coming is coming: should we recycle?
28. What will you teach your kids about Santa? How will you reconcile Santa and Jesus and parents and Christmas?
29. Is it possible to be intelligent without reading books?
30. How smart can you get until it becomes a danger to your testimony?
31. According to the rules, a bearded Brigham Young couldn't teach at Brigham Young University: what do you think about that?
32. Why is the school dress code more strict than the temple dress code?
33. Let's say your roommate breaks curfew repeatedly. Should you turn him or her in to the bishop? To the school authorities?
34. At BYU—I, the social scene revolves not around academic similarities but around ward boundaries. Some say that the result is less camaraderie in the classroom, less drive to learn each other's names, etc. Do you see this as a problem? How could it be fixed?
35. How important is it to get to know your classmates? Your professors?
36. Is it a sin to go to an art exhibit you know will contain nudity?
37. Is it fair for teachers to round up the grades of students they like or have a good relationship with?
38. What is the point of literature, anyway?

39. Should students take a break after high school and before beginning college, or should they just plow through? Is it better to rush through a degree quickly or take time and even take classes outside one's major?
40. Mormons are required to sustain their church leaders in order to maintain their temple worthiness. In the Articles of Faith it says that Mormons "believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers, and magistrates, in obeying, honoring, and sustaining the law." What is the proper attitude for a Mormon to have towards a political leader they did not vote for or do not agree with?
41. Are you more likely to develop a strong testimony here at BYU-I among thousands of like-minded people or at a non-LDS institution where you would be part of a tiny minority? What dangers does your testimony face here at BYU-I?
42. Can someone be considered a true scribe if he or she has never read the entire Old Testament?
43. If you could go back in time to tell yourself one thing, what would it be?
44. If your future self came back in time tomorrow to tell you one thing about your education, what do you think it would be? What is the last thing you'd want it to be?
45. Pirates, unicorns, or dinosaurs?